

November 13, 2006

So Good, It's Scary

You've been known to take the good with the bad. Lemons? Make lemonade. MySpace stalker? Insta Buddy.

To that end, Atlanta-based designer Mickey Lynn puts things in perspective with her Roll the Bones collection — a line of jewelry that mixes high and low and sweet and creepy with everything in between.

To be sure, Lynn's design cred is beautifully balanced. The former IT whiz decided that she wasn't doing enough right-brain thinking to satisfy her artsy side, so she started creating pieces mixing materials like bones and stones with healing properties. Restless? Slip on the citrine. Clingy? Eye the iolite.

Not quite sure what to do? Set up a meeting with her and commission a design tailor-made to your style or situation.

Talk about looking on the bright side.

Available at Pink Lemonade, 3802 Roswell Road, suite 23, Buckhead (404-846-0741); Mitzi and Romano, 1038 North Highland Avenue (404-873-4718); online at mickeylynndesigns.com.

TODAY IN EVERYWHERE
Snow Angel

 You love the nightlife. (And the shopping.) You've got to boogie. (And get facials.) So sign up now for DailyCandy Miami.